Children's Author Sommer Hamilton and owner of Adventure with Sommer Hamilton Blog.

As a young girl, I began writing after spending time in my mother's personal library and creating my own world of make-believe. I live in the beautiful Texas Hill Country with my husband, Mark, my son William, and a dog named Sam.

I live in the most astonishing world of make-believe, my home is filled with artists of all kinds of writers, artists, musicians, aspiring chef's dominate every room. There are no terrible creations; just make it beautiful is my motto. Writing and Illustrating provided me with an excellent opportunity and inspiration to create.

My family believes in making memories and enjoying your best life. We are always up for a new adventure or the next treasure hunt and spending time with Mother Nature. I love sharing my passion for imagination with the world through my Children's books, workshops, events, and my blog with kids of all ages.
